VERODUS INTERNAL BRIEFING

The generic benefits memo is the wrong deal

Mark-up of lead-gen / HK credibility / education / competition branding · 22 August 2026

Keep three sentences: the email is a Bookmap template; official long-term partner is not a deal; start with a measured pilot, not exclusivity.

Throw out the value thesis. It models Joe's unverified headcount and halo as Verodus's upside. For a Dubai FZ simulated-evaluation shop, that halo is the liability. The only number that matters is tagged Instant / 1-Step / Lite checkouts on unchanged rules. Do not take a clarifying call until he sends a one-pager that could only have been written for Verodus.

What that memo gets right

Line in that memo	Why it survives
Value is in execution details, not official long-term partner.	Correct. The email offers a logo.
Bookmap / order-flow leftover means they did not research Verodus.	Correct. Same class as TradeMath's old Linear.app leftovers.
Start narrow. Do not give away product without measurable return.	Correct. 90-day unique-code pilot.
Prop firms live on challenge volume.	Category-true. Not proof he can send volume.
25%/40% returns and the 1,700-person Saudi story need verification.	Correct — then the memo still uses those numbers as the TAM. Stop.
OHKF is a policy think tank, not a fund vehicle.	Correct. Then do not treat OHKF as a credibility asset for Verodus.

Wrong geography, wrong buyer

The memo is written as if Verodus were a North American prop shop hunting an HK halo. Verodus is Verodus L.L.C.-FZ (Dubai), payments via Verodus Capital Inc., ~3,000 users, 175+ countries already. Joe cannot add a geography Verodus does not already sell into. He can only add named buyers, if they hit checkout with a code.

1. Lower CAC off 10,000 traders and a 1,700-person Saudi event

Category true, inputs false. TradeMath About still claims 10k members, 10k asset classes, 10M+ backtests, 50+ networks, a Jane Street framework — with the metric row duplicated and mislabeled. MoniMath LinkedIn posts still get ~3–5 reactions. The 2025 Saudi-government 1,700 claim has no public TradeMath / Joe / World Traders Hub match. Nearest public shape is Algo Challenge Association at Money20/20 Riyadh; they are not on the sponsor list; prizes ~USD 2k. Championship on his site is a Rolex essay + form. That is not a pre-filtered challenge buyer.

CAC falls only if unique-code checkouts beat paid UA after refunds and chargebacks. Model 20 / 100 / 500 Instant at $49, not 10,000. Twenty tagged Instant checkouts in 90 days is about $980 gross. Official partner status with no unique code and no net-fee share is the unpaid logo he asked for. That raises CAC in disguise.

2. Asia / Hong Kong credibility signal — this is the trap

- Our Hong Kong Foundation is real (Tung Chee-hwa). No public page ties it to Joe, TradeMath, MoniMath, or World Traders Hub HK. Repeat it next to Verodus and you own the sentence.
- MoniMath Capital SFC approval is a 20 Nov 2025 LinkedIn post (~3 reactions). The live site says partners with Types 1/2/9, mislabels Type 2 as Advising on Securities (that is Type 4), and names no CE number. LinkedIn approval vs site partners is a contradiction, not a plus.
- Marketing claims around institutional-grade partnerships are exactly what Verodus must not do. Intros to unnamed platforms, mentors, and BofA / Crédit Lyonnais / RBC / KPMG executive members: names or drop.

3. Education synergy — optional upsell, never a pathway

TradeMath's Level 1–4 ladder is still duplicated/broken. No named faculty. Making the course a gate to Instant kills the $49 impulse purchase, lets Joe capture the course fee while Verodus takes KYC/support/payouts, and can raise pass rates — which hurts fail-fee P&L if you also loosen rules for the championship. Co-branded content is free advertising of his academy unless it ends in a tagged checkout.

4. Competition branding — common in the sector, not free here

- Prize inventory = capped Instant or named 1-Step/Lite evaluation accounts, rules unchanged. Not live capital. Not uncapped 2-Step Pro.
- Data on participant performance is either his essay-form junk or your tickets / P&L / behavior. Privacy still bans external commercialization. Do not volunteer a feed.
- A 2027 HK final with no venue, no Companies Registry number, and no OHKF letter is a landing page. If he wants brand in HK he buys a cash sponsorship with written confirmation. He has not offered to buy it.

5. Secondary angles — what they named vs what they missed

Angle in that memo	Reality
Order-flow / MT5-Android technical integration	Verodus has Platform 5 (MT5, not for US) + TradeHub. It is not Bookmap. Do not build to leftover template copy.
European Chamber / HSBC unnamed leads	Unnamed. Same as the bank list.
Licensed funds / AUM adjacency	25%/40% for six years is unverified. Even if true, Verodus does not take AUM and must not imply it does.

Missed by that memo	MoniMath PropTrade (announced 18 Nov 2025, kickoff Jan 2026), no public live stack. Actual secondary: his PropTrade on Verodus rails after a checkout floor. Verodus keeps most GMV.

Dissolved company of a similar name

Could not confirm a dissolved World Traders Hub HK tied to Joe. Public name collisions exist and are unrelated (World Trading Hub PPE, UAE Traders Hub). Do not treat a similar-name dissolved vehicle as diligence. Ask for the Hong Kong Companies Registry number and a current-status printout. Until then it is a letterhead.

Rewrite of their next steps

Their step	Do this instead
Request audited 25%/40% and 2025 competition partners as if that unlocks a prop deal	Irrelevant to Instant checkout. Halo in joint copy requires SFC CE numbers, an OHKF contact, and the Saudi organizer. Otherwise those names never appear next to Verodus.
Clarify Bookmap; confirm they understand Verodus is a prop firm	One paragraph in writing: simulated evaluations, Instant / 1-Step / Lite, no deposits, no client funds, no brokerage, no order-flow tool. If the next note still cannot name those SKUs, stop.
Limited co-marketing around one competition stage	Only with a unique code, 15–25% of net eval fees, 90 days, no exclusivity, rules unchanged.
Short clarifying call on mutual economics (low-cost)	Not low-cost. It spends another meeting on a template. Paper first. Call only to walk a Verodus-specific one-pager.
Protect brand and economics	Named: no unpaid logo, no SFC/OHKF/Saudi/Jane Street adjacency, no required education, no data dump, no custom championship rules.

Bottom line vs theirs

Theirs: most realistic near-term value is a lower-cost Asia channel plus a credibility boost from HK institutional framing.

> Ours: the only realistic near-term value is tagged challenge fees. The HK institutional framing is the part you refuse to repeat. Credibility for Verodus is payout proof and careful copy, not Joe’s think-tank sentence. If the generic memo is used as the internal brief, Verodus will negotiate logo + education + halo — which is what he wants — instead of net-fee origination, which is the only thing that pays.
