

What to do with Joe Wong, and what Verodus should consider

22 August 2026 · For Alexander and Kim · Not an offer

Do the referral. Do not do the logo, the data, or the engine-as-his-product. Three asks, three documents, never one yes.

The 20 August memo still treated a data license as Layer A. That is out. Live Privacy forbids external commercialization and external sharing of trading-behavior data. Do not volunteer it.

Revised posture

Ask (Kim, in the room)	Email (after Karma Lounge)	Verodus position
% of “profits” from directing customers	Not written. Unpaid official long-term partner instead	Yes, if unique code + 15–25% of net eval fees on Instant / 1-Step / Lite. 90 days. Not trader payouts. Not company P&L.
No competition engine; he needs yours	Bookmap leftover: order-flow visualization, free logo on a 2027 HK final	Later, if the 90-day code clears a checkout floor. White-label only. Verodus keeps the stack (~70–85% GMV). No CRM fork.
“We share the data”	Not in the letter; TAMS still needs labeled tickets	No. Not as a sweetener. Not to make the championship real. Counsel would have to amend Privacy + DPA, and even then you would sell it.

Bookmap’s live prop pairs (10FOUR, EdgeProp, Trade The Pool, historically TickTickTrader) keep heatmap vendor and eval shop separate. Joe assigned Bookmap’s product to Verodus. 10FOUR — HK Instant, 90%, CQG, Rise — is the shop Bookmap actually signed on 11 August, ten days before he emailed you. Competitor category, not a partner you inherit.

What to say to Joe

1. Correct the product first

Send the already-drafted reply. Do not attach a term sheet. Make him describe Verodus correctly first. His next note must name Instant / 1-Step / Lite, a unique code, one contracting entity, and — only if he still wants those words in joint copy — SFC CE numbers, an OHKF contact, and the Saudi organizer. If it still cannot name Instant vs 1-Step vs Lite, do not follow up twice.

2. Offer only the referral

Item	Position
SKUs	Instant, 1-Step, Lite. Not 2-Step Pro. Not a custom championship account.
Rules	Unchanged. Daily loss, trail, Best Day, Instant non-refundability, KYC.
Tracking	Unique code. No code, no commission.
Pay him	15–25% of net evaluation fees after refunds and chargebacks. Start at 20% unless volume is proven.
Do not pay him	Trader payouts, company profit, prize pool, untagged traffic.
Prizes	Capped Instant accounts you price. Not live capital.
Term	90 days. Either party walks. No exclusivity.
Brand	Originated by TradeMath / MoniMath. Evaluated by Verodus. Verodus approves every sentence that names Verodus.

Kill line (Instant at $49, 20% of net): 20 unique checkouts in 90 days. Twenty is a meeting that produced a list. Five hundred is a channel. Zero codes is a template.

3. Engine / PropTrade is a second document

He announced MoniMath PropTrade on 18 Nov 2025 for January 2026. Still no public Instant / KYC / MT5 / TradeHub / payout stack. If the code produces real checkouts: his brand on the front; Verodus rules, Platform 5 / TradeHub, Veriff, Rise on the back; Verodus keeps ~70–85% of challenge GMV; no tickets; tail non-compete so PropTrade does not stand up off Verodus. Do not give him a logo now so he can tell the market you partnered while he shops rails elsewhere.

4. Explicit nos

- Unpaid official long-term partner / exclusive logo
- Bookmap / heatmap / execute-from-the-tape assigned to Verodus
- Required TradeMath education as a gate to Instant
- Sharing or licensing trader data under current Privacy
- Custom championship rules that loosen daily / trail / Best Day
- % of trader payouts or company P&L
- A clarifying call before a Verodus-specific one-pager

5. If he brings Bookmap

He had Bookmap's partner language. He did not have Bookmap's deal. Public templates: EdgeProp (coupon BOOKMAP30 + included seat + Rithmic execute from heatmap); 10FOUR (co-brand; trader still buys Bookmap; analysis beside CQG/TradingView); Trade The Pool (30-day trial, trader pays after funded); TickTickTrader (bundled free Bookmap, then lost Tradovate and Project X; homepage Coming soon).

If Joe actually has a Bookmap conversation, that is parallel shopping. Verodus does not join it. You are not a Rithmic/CQG futures shop. Bulk-licensing Bookmap would be a cost line for CME tape readers, not Instant origination. If he wants Bookmap, he deals with Bookmap. If he wants challenge volume, he names Instant / 1-Step / Lite and a code. Do not volunteer "we'll add Bookmap later."

Reply Alexander can send

Tone: you met him; you are not hostile; you will not sign a blank partnership. Do not attach economics, a white-label, or a Bookmap comparison on this first send.

Hi Joe, Good to hear from you after Karma Lounge. Quick clarification so we don't waste a cycle: Verodus is a simulated evaluation firm (Instant and challenge programs, published rules, cash performance rewards). We are not an order-flow visualization platform, and we don't run client brokerage books. If the collaboration you have in mind is challenges / Asia origination / a 2027 competition funnel onto those products, we can talk. If it was scoped for a terminal like Bookmap, that's a different company. For a first discussion I need a short Verodus-specific note covering: (1) which Verodus products you want (Instant, 1-Step, 2-Step Lite/Pro) and whether prize accounts are paid or comped; (2) how you would send buyers (tracked links / codes) — we only share net evaluation fees on tagged checkouts, after refunds and chargebacks, on unchanged public rules; (3) contracting entity, and the SFC CE number for any licensed fund you want associated with this — if there isn't one, we can't be named next to SFC approval; (4) a contact at Our Hong Kong Foundation if you want that name in any joint material, and the same for the Saudi 2025 event (organizer, participant-count source, TradeMath's role). We don't do unpaid exclusive official long-term partner appointments, and we don't license trader data under the current Privacy Policy. Happy to do 30 minutes once that note is in. Alexander

What Verodus should consider (internal)

These are for Kim and Alexander, not for Joe.

A. He is a connector, not a stack

LIS Group / MyAIQuit is the only name with a real org chart (Joe is Chairman; CTO is Jacky Qi Zhang). TradeMath is WordPress education plus a Rolex-essay championship. MoniMath is TAMS plus a PropTrade announcement plus broken SFC copy. World Traders Hub HK is email-only. Leftover Linear copy on the site, leftover Bookmap copy in the letter. Useful as Asia origination if a code proves a list. Not someone to whom you hand rails or tape.

B. Kim is closer to the real ask than the email

Pay the activity Kim heard (directing customers). Do not sign the paper he mailed (free logo). Force "profits" onto net eval fees. If he means trader payouts or company P&L, the answer is no.

C. 10FOUR is the HK Instant analogue — competition, not Joe's gift

Bookmap signed 10FOUR on 11 August. Ten Four Group, HK CR 79713385. Instant / Origin / Daily, 90%, Riseworks, CQG futures. Same category language as Verodus, different market and stack. If Joe is shopping a prop for the 2027 final, 10FOUR is sitting in his city. A Verodus logo does not stop him sending futures traders there. Keep no exclusivity in your favor too — you can add other Asia affiliates.

D. Do not buy HK halo

OHKF is a real think tank. No public page ties it to Joe. The "1,700-person Saudi government" event is not on the Algo Challenge Association / Money20/20 sponsor list under TradeMath / Joe / WTHHK. MoniMath's SFC story is inconsistent. Repeating any of that next to Verodus is the liability, not the prize. Verodus already sells in 175+ countries from Dubai FZ. Joe cannot add a geography. He can add tagged checkouts.

E. Fail-fee economics are the constraint

Do not loosen Best Day, daily, trail, or Instant non-refundability for the championship. Do not make TradeMath education a gate — that kills the $49 Instant impulse and lets him capture the course fee. Prize accounts are a capped COGS line, not open-ended 2-Step Pro.

F. Clone risk sits on the engine, not on the code

A unique code does not teach him KYC, payouts, and risk. A white-label without a tail non-compete does. Sequence exists to stop PropTrade standing up off Verodus after he has seen the dashboard. Data sharing is the faster clone: labeled tickets train TAMS.

G. Bookmap is a cost, not origination

Verodus buyers are not default CME heatmap users. EdgeProp pays Bookmap seats because its traders execute futures from the tape. TickTickTrader shows bundled seats do not survive a lost feed. Platform 5 cannot bolt onto Rithmic. Do not let BD curiosity become a Bookmap invoice.

H. Contracting and copy control

Four names, one operator. Do not sign World Traders Hub HK until a registry number exists. Sign the entity that will receive commission, with Joe as commercial lead. Every public sentence that names Verodus is approved in writing. He does not get to paste you into the next template the way he pasted you onto Bookmap.

I. Operational load of a yes

A 90-day pilot still needs: unique code in checkout, refund/chargeback netting, a prize-account cap, a copy-approval mailbox, and someone to kill the code at day 90. That is cheap. A white-label is not. Do not staff PropTrade until 20+ tagged Instant checkouts (or equivalent 1-Step / Lite net) actually happen.

J. How to answer Kim

Joe asked in person for a cut of referred customers and for the stack behind a competition he cannot run. The email then asked for a free logo and still thinks we are Bookmap. We take the referral if it is a unique code and a share of net challenge fees, rules unchanged. We do not share trading data. We do not give him the engine as his product. Bookmap's real pairs (10FOUR, EdgeProp) keep the heatmap and the eval shop separate — we will too. If he wants PropTrade, it runs on our rails after a 90-day checkout floor.

Sequence — do not skip steps

- This week: Alexander sends the product-correction reply. No term sheet. No call until the one-pager arrives.
- If the one-pager names SKUs and a code: 90-day affiliate only. 20% of net. Kill at ~20 Instant checkouts unless mix is better.
- If the code works: second document — PropTrade white-label, Verodus keeps the stack, no data.
- Never in this pass: data license, unpaid exclusivity, Bookmap integration, OHKF/SFC/Saudi co-brand, required academy, loosened rules.

Walk-away

- Next email is still a template
- Free official-partner lock
- Needs Verodus to validate 25%/40% or OHKF
- Asks for tickets "to run the championship"
- Will not name Instant vs 1-Step vs Lite
